

HTML

- Enter your HTML notes here
- The head element contains information about the webpage.
- The body element represents the visible content shown to the user.
 - HTML is one of the most used computer languages.

CSS

- It is the language that allows the code to be visable
- Cascading Style Sheets
- the presentation of a document written in a markup language such as HTML or XML
 - A cornerstone language of the World Wide Web, alongside HTML and Javascript
 - A margin indicates how much space we want around the outside of an element
- A padding indicates how much space we want around the content inside an element
- links code to visual
- In the Index.html file

- git status: checks what branch we are currently on.
 git checkout -b branch name: creats a new branch and switches to it.